REVOLT IN GERMANY OF SHORT DURATION

New Cabinet, Early Elections With People Voting Promise

Berlin, March 15.—In fighting today at Dortmund, Westphalia, several persons were killed or wounded. The big smelting works there are completely idle.

It is stated that a Soviet government has been proclaimed in Bochum and Essen. Frankfort-on-Main is reported to be in the hands of the workers. Workmen have stormed the railway station at Hanover.

The workers at Chemnitz, Saxony, have formed a provisional committee of action consisting of three Socialists, three Independents and three Communists. The committee disarmed the volunteers' battalion and the home guard and removed the bourgeoisie from the security guard. Three thousand armed workmen occupied the railway station, postoffice and town hall and have assumed power in the surrounding towns. The publication of bourgeois newspapers has been forbidden.

The government of the principality of Reuss has been deposed and the establishment of a Soviet republic there is expected.

Berlin, March 15.—The counter-revolution in Germany appears to night to have reached the end of the road. There is a strong probability that shortly one government will be in control and that President Ebert will come back to Berlin with his ministers.

A basis of agreement between the government set up by Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, as chancellor, and the government of President Ebert is enunciated in a declaration issued by the present Berlin government today. Announcement is made that negotiations with a settlement in view have been opened between the two governments at the instance of President Ebert, and his associates. There is, however, no direct confirmation of this from Ebert, who is understood to be at Stuttgart.

Briefly, Chancellor Kapp is agreeable to the continuance in office of the "present imperial president," Friedrich Ebert; he renounces the formation of a new ministry and places the direction of affairs in the hands of the under secretaries of state.

The agreement as set forth by Chancellor Kapp provides for a cabinet, which shall include "professional ministers," or experts; elections within two months for members of the Reichstag and the Prussian National Assembly, and subsequently an election for "imperial President" by the people—until which time Ebert shall hold the reins of power.

Strike Considered Crime.

One significant clause in the pronouncement says: "The new and old governments shall issue a joint declaration that under present conditions a general strike is a crime against the German people." Herein lies the explanation of the proposed settlement, for the general strike, as often before, has proved an effective weapon. Germany already has felt its sinister effect, for the strike in Berlin and many of the other principal cities of the country immediately cut off supplies, means of transportation, light and heat.

It was President Ebert and his ministers who called upon the Socialists, the workmen and all the people to declare a general strike, and there was an instant and effective response to this call. Labor fiercely resisted the usurpation of the reactionary government. A vast number of men left their work and serious disorders occurred in various parts of the country. Chancellor Kapp and his supporters announced that they would deal harshly with strikers or positive resistance to the existing order in Berlin. One of the leaders of the counter revolution, voicing the sentiment of the others, said: "We won't knuckle down to the Socialists and workmen, who think they can run the country."

Notwithstanding the government's threats of drastic measures, it has been evident that neither Dr. Kapp nor Maj. Gen. von Luettwitz was willing to put their warnings to the test. Bloodshed would then have been inevitable, plunging the country possibly into a state of anarchy and giving the Communists the opportunity they had long waited to foist the Soviet doctrines upon Germany.

Grave Situation Avoided.

The situation for a time was fraught with alarming possibilities, particularly if the strike should extend to the railroads. The immediate consequence of this would have been the speedy starvation of Berlin. The most liberal estimates placed Berlin's food supply at less than eight days.

This state of affairs was recognized in all its seriousness also by the Ebert government. Therefore, hope is entertained here that an agreement will be reached by the two contending governments and that the streets of Berlin will soon be cleared of wire entanglements, machine guns and armed troops.

Alto this counter-revolution has thus far been the most orderly of any in the history of a great country, it has not passed without the clashing of arms and bloodshed. In various cities fighting has occurred, participated in both by mobs and by troops, and today several persons were killed and others wounded in disorders in the suburbs of Berlin when rifles and machine guns were turned upon the crowds.

Hand grenades also were exploded in front of the headquarters of Gen. von Luettwitz, the reactionary minister of defense, but did no great damage, indicating merely the spirit of opposition.

Much interest should attach to the meeting of the National Assembly which has been called for Tuesday at Stuttgart. The action of the assembly, if the meeting is held, should have a potent effect in clearing up the grave situation which has arisen in the past few days.

WOOD OUT FRONT

Army Man Gets Plurality Over Field In Minn. Primary.

St. Paul, Minn., March 16—Minnesota's Republican preference primary, held last night in rain, sleet and snowstorms and terrific gales, gave Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood a plurality of 4,000 votes over Senator Hiram Johnson of California, on the face of available returns.

Herbert Hoover, not an avowed candidate, received such strong support in St. Paul and Minneapolis that returns from 450 precincts showed him leading Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois by more than 1,000 votes.

The latest tabulation showed the following vote:

Wood, 12,627; Johnson, 8,517; Hoover, 4,486 and Lowden 3,510.

The totals include a majority of the precincts in St. Paul and Minneapolis. The returns from the rural districts were very slow coming in, and late in the night all wires were prostrated by the high winds and snow.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY REFUSES U. S. PLAN

Atlanta, Ga., March 16.—Believing that the remarkable prosperity of the South will be continued indefinitely, the Southern railway system will rely on its own earnings instead of accepting the "standard return" of 5½ per cent with an extra ½ of 1 per cent for improvements, provided in the transportation act.

This decision was learned tonight after the return of President Fairfax Harrison from a trip over the system, which convinced him that conditions were such that the Southern lines would equal or surpass the Government's guarantee, amounting in this particular instance to about $2,500,000 annually.

Roads affected by the decision are the Southern railway, Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific, Alabama Great Southern and New Orleans & Southeastern.

MRS HANNAH PARK

Mrs. Hannah Park died at the home of her son, John Park, of Red Hill, Daviess County, Monday afternoon, after being in poor health for several years, tubercular trouble being the direct cause of her death. The remains were buried Tuesday at Red Hill.

Mrs. Park was the widow of William H. Park, who preceded her in death some years ago. The family formerly resided in this county, near Beda, and have a large number of surviving friends and relatives throughout the County.

REAR ADMIRAL SIMS UNFOLDS WAR STORY

Fear Of Raid Against U. S. Transports Brought To Light

Washington, March 15.—A hitherto unpublished story of wartime anxiety in London and Washington lest German battle cruisers attempt a forlorn hope raid against American transports was disclosed today to the Senate Naval Investigating Committee by Rear Admiral Sims. Messages exchanged by Admiral Benson, Chief of Operations and Admiral Sims in July, 1918, were presented by the latter to correct "implications" which, he said, Secretary Daniels had made to the committee that "general plans and policies were none of my business."

Included in plans formed by the Navy Department to meet such raids and rejected by Admiral Sims as "impractical" was a proposal to call on Japan for a battle cruiser division to serve with the American Atlantic fleet.

Advised Use of Battleships.

In the spring of 1918, Admiral Sims said, when the submarine menace had been overcome, naval officials in London became apprehensive that the Germans might as a last venture, send out battle cruisers in the hope of destroying an American convoy.

Admiral Sims said he cabled that everything possible would be done to intercept raiding German cruisers, but that there could not be any guarantee that enemy battle cruisers would not reach the open Atlantic undetected. He advised guarding United States troop convoys with battleships.

"God Was With Us."

Only the fact that "God was with us" saved early troop ship convoys from German torpedoes. Admiral Sims declared. "Good luck" was with the department, he insisted, as the enemy had advance information of the sailing of convoys and destroyers through the department's use of an old and unsafe code. Data regarding the first convoy was thus obtained by the enemy, he said, and the transports De Kalb and Savannah, carrying thousands of troops, narrowly escaped destruction.

This was the sixth day on which Admiral Sims has read to the committee from his prepared statement, and he does not expect to conclude it before Thursday. Officers who served on his staff in Europe will follow him.

FISCAL COURT IN TWO DAYS' SESSION

The Ohio County Fiscal Court was in special session Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, with Judge Cook presiding and the following Justices present: Ed Shown, B. C. Rhoads, B. F. Rice, W. C. Daugherty, and Geo. W. Rowe. Squire Brown and Stevens were absent on account of sickness and W. S. Dean is in Florida, where he went some time ago.

The Court had several Tractor and Culvert Representatives before it, each always anxious and ready to explain his wares and the finer points etc. The Court appointed Committees to investigate prices, quality and other points of interest to the County and will not purchase before the April term, to which time the Court adjourned, partly in deference to the absent members, it being very desirous that the full Court be present when important action like the purchase of Tractors and Culverts is up for consideration. County Clerk Blankenship did the clerical work for the Court. County Attorney A. D. Kirk was also present.

WAR DEPARTMENT INSISTS LIVE SOLDIER IS "DEAD"

Haverhill, Mass., March 13.—Altho the parents of Adolph E. Roy, returned overseas soldier, now working in a local factory, have previously notified the government that their son, reported by the War Department as being dead, is very much alive, the government apparently insists that he is dead.

They forwarded to the parents, as the "nearest of kin" a French war memorial awarded Roy.

KIEL SHELLLED BY GERMAN CRUISER

American Troops On Rhine Get Full Battle Equipment

Chancellor Kapp resigns in favor of Ebert, London is informed.

Kiel is bombarded by German cruiser, 400 reported killed when workmen's quarters are raked by navy guns.

German monarchists, believing Supreme Council will not reopen hostilities, plan jointly with Russian Soviets to invade Russian Poland.

Revolt hands Germany over to Bolsheviks, says French Communists whose prediction is echoed by moderates in Paris.

Ludendorff will reorganize the Russian Soviet army.

Full field equipment is being issued to the 18,000 American soldiers on the Rhine.

Credit of $1,000,000,000 to Germany proposed in Congress by New York Representative.

Previous advices to State Department are borne out by revolution, in that Junkers, military and industrial groups planned coup to overthrow Ebert and win economic control over Russia. Washington believes if Kapp fails another attempt will be made.

Chairman Kahn, of the House Military Committee, will ask Wilson to fix the status of the Army of Occupation.

The American Army of Occupation numbering 18,000 men, is being issued full field equipment under orders issued before the German revolution.

There have been no movements, however, to reinforce any positions or any military activities as well as those concerned with policing the occupied territory.

The total allied forces along the Rhine are estimated at slightly more than 100,000 men.

MAY VOTE THIS WEEK ON TREATY RATIFICATION

Washington, March 16—Senate leaders worked today for an agreement to vote on ratification of the Peace Treaty this week, so that the pact might be sent to President Wilson or laid aside to permit consideration of other business.

If the ratification vote fails of the necessary two-thirds majority, a motion to reconsider is expected immediately probable by majority leaders, in the hope of stampeding some of the opposition into changing their votes. It was admitted the situation held many possibilities, in view of the urgent representations that have been made for ratifying the treaty to stabilize world conditions.

Adoption yesterday of the substitute reservation to Article X by a vote of 56 to 26 removed the last obstacle to a vote on the treaty itself, although a number of other questions remain to be settled first. Fourteen Democrats voted with the majority, but that number was less than half of the strength which ardent ratificationists had promised to deliver.

Administration leaders seemed without fear that their forces would crumble sufficiently to enable the Republicans to ratify the pact with the objectionable reservation to Article X, which President Wilson let it be known through Senator Hitchcock he would not accept.

The preamble to the treaty is one of the minor questions to be considered before the ratification vote is taken. Another is Senator proposal that the British protectorate over Egypt should be regarded as "merely a measure to preserve the integrity and independence of Egypt during the war" which was to be taken up today.

With the disposal of the Article X qualification, the limit on debate expired.

In the opinion of most Senators, it will not be necessary to restrict speeches again.

MRS. BLACK ILL.

Mrs. T. H. Black has been seriously ill for the past few days and her condition became such Wednesday, that Dr. Samuels, of Louisville, was called. He arrived here Wednesday night and after an examination pronounced the trouble as appendicitis and an operation necessary. Under the circumstances it was deemed best to convey Mrs. Black to Louisville for the operation. She was accordingly taken to that City yesterday afternoon.

YEGGMEN BUSY

Woodburn Bank Looted Of Securities Stamps, $9,600 Gone.

Yeggmen, believed to have been the same who have operated in various sections of the State in the past four months, last night blew open the vault of the Bank of Woodburn, at Woodburn, Warren County, twelve miles south of Bowling Green and rifled deposit boxes, escaping with $2,800 in bonds and War Savings Stamps, $200 in cash, $600 in postage stamps and $6,000 in notes.

The robbery is believed by Bowing Green authorities and the bank officials to have been committed by four men who passed through Bowing Green in a Cadillac automobile, without license tag at 1:15 o'clock this morning. The men stopped at the Imperial Garage for water and then proceeded north, according to Henry Owens.

Bank officials have offered a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the safe-blowers.

Door Blasted Open.

The cracksmen drilled through the combination of the vault and then blew the door open with nitroglycerin. Safety deposit boxes were pried open and their contents removed. Money, bonds and war-savings stamps were taken, while insurance policies, property deeds and other papers were discarded and strewn on the floor.

The bank safe was not tampered with. It contained $10,000.

Six hundred dollars worth of postage stamps belonged to the post office. Mrs. Virgie Potter is postmaster. Postoffice inspectors were informed of the circumstances. The thieves overlooked $26 belonging to the Government.

Twenty-five safety deposit boxes in the vault were ransacked.

The robbery was discovered by the bank cashier. The only person up all night at Woodburn was Clint Hobby, the railroad telegraph operator. Several persons reported having heard a noise that resembled the slam of a door during the night, but they thought it was caused by the wind.

Residents of Woodburn were unaware of the operation of the robbers until the theft was discovered this morning. The case has caused much excitement in the community.

The robbery was the eighth vault and safe blown by yeggmen in Kentucky in four months. In addition an unsuccessful attempt was made to rob a bank at Adairville. The amount of loot obtained from all operations is estimated at $50,000.

DEATH DEVICES OF FUTURE WAR, THEME

Frenchman Avers Wireless And Airships Will Add To Horrors

Paris, March 13.—Awful as was the destruction of life and property in the war which came to an end in November, 1918, it will be surpassed tenfold by the wholesale butchery of the next armed conflict between the nations. Men who have devoted their lives to the study of methods of killing armies state that, owing to the immense advance in science, such as chemistry and electricity, they regard the possibility of another general war with unspeakable horror.

Cited among the tragic consequences of the advance of science will be the formidable intensification of aerial bombardments, new and more deadly asphyxiating gases, fresh methods of long-range slaughter, newer and more powerful explosives. Submarines, guided by wireless telegraphy, will have no need of crews to risk death and their torpedoes will be set off by the same means.

PROJECTS TORPEDO SHELLS.

M. Pétain, who was French minister of war in the Millerand cabinet of 1917, believes the most potent weapon in the next conflict will be "torpedo shells" which will be able to travel immense distances before exploding.

According to M. Branly, France's chief wireless expert, nobody will be safe, even far behind the actual fighting front. Wireless methods of destruction will have reached such an extraordinary development, he declares, in the course of the next ten or twenty years that people will have seriously to consider the building of subterranean cities because on the surface of the earth there will be no security for life. M. Branly regards the combination of wireless telegraphy and aviation as one which will decide the prime characteristics of the next war.

"The progress in aviation is fraught with the direst possibilities since it is now easy to transport enormous quantities of explosives at unheard-of speed," said M. Branly. "The only way to prevent the wholesale slaughter of noncombatants in the next war will be the construction of subterranean shelters under all our cities capable of accommodating the entire population. We have seen airplanes large and powerful enough to carry twenty, thirty, even forty persons, and I foresee in the near future, airplanes capable of carrying 100 passengers. They will have a speed of more than 100 miles an hour. Setting sail from Berlin they would be over Paris in a couple of hours, dropping immense quantities of explosives."

MUCH FOOLISH DISCUSSION.

"A lot has been written about the possibility of causing explosives and configuration at a distance by means of wireless telegraphy. There has been much foolish talk regarding it.

In order to accomplish anything of that nature the apparatus on the spot where the action is to occur is indispensable. Suppose, for instance, the Germans wanted to set Paris ablaze. They would have to have in Paris, already arranged, a series of apparatus which might be called "receivers." Without them nothing of the kind is possible.

"At sea, however, the same objection does not hold. It will be quite within the range of possibility, for example, to hurl into the midst of a enemy fleet an engine of destruction which can be exploded by wireless telegraphy. In the same way it is possible to conceive a submarine, without crew, steered by wireless to a strategic position for the discharge of torpedoes, which would also be done by wireless."

SURGEON IS CAUGHT WITH A WANT AD

For several months Robert Lynard, a New York elevator operator, worked a clever little burglary game which netted something like $10,000 in silverware, jewels and other valuables before the police caught him. His scheme was to watch the "Help Wanted" columns of the papers and answer advertisements calling for elevator operators in apartment houses. As he had army discharge papers to offer for reference, he succeeded in finding practically every job he went after.

He would then take his place at the desk of the elevator and at first opportunity call up by telephone the various apartments in the building. Apartments in which his calls were answered were promptly checked off his list but those from which no response came were marked for a ransacking at his hands, the natural inference being that no-one was at home and that the coast was clear for his operations. He would then force his way into the unoccupied rooms and after helping himself to whatever valuables he fancied quit the premises and his "job."

It took them quite a while but the police finally got onto his game. By putting two and two together they learned who he was, how he operated and then decided on a plan to trap him.

They advertised for an elevator operator, directing applicants to report to a fashionable apartment in the uptown district. Their man soon appeared, applied for the job and got it. Without letting any grass grow under his feet he got busy at the telephone as was his wont and when he entered one of the apartments from which there had been no response to his telephone call, he walked into the arms of a squad of husky cops waiting to receive him.

MINCE PIE FOR PRISONER CONTAINED SAWNS, FILES

Denver, March 12.—Police are still searching for a pretty, young girl, who left a mince pie with a jailor at the city jail here to be given Howard Bershly, 20-year-old burglar, who is held for trial.

When the young lady called at the city jail she was informed that it would be necessary for her to secure a permit from the office of the chief of police before seeing Bershly. She asked a jailer to keep the pie until she could secure the permit. Becoming suspicious when she failed to return, the jailer opened the pie and discovered a fine assortment of hacksaws and files, evidently to be used by Bershly in sawing his way to freedom.

UNDERPAID PASTORS GET $400,000 FUND

Nashville, March 13.—The Centenary Commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has ordered the disbursement of a fund of more than $400,000 to the underpaid preachers of the denomination.

This is the first annual disbursement from a fund of nearly $5,000,000 which will be used to increase salaries.

The payments will be made thru the boards of missions in the various annual conferences throughout the South and West. These boards supervise work of the mission preachers.

The Centenary Commission has had all the missions graded, and a minimum salary of $1,000 per year has been established for married preachers who are members of any conference.

Before the conception of the Centenary movement 3,943 Southern pastors, of a total of less than 7,000 did not receive this minimum. Of this number, $19 received less than $400 per year, 449 less than $500, while 517 did not receive as much as $600.

The Centenary Movement of the Southern Methodist Church, raised $53,000,000 for missionary work. The disbursement which has been made to the underpaid preachers this year will be repeated annually for five years.

At the end of that period it is believed that all the churches will be strong enough to support their own pastors adequately.

Of the fund recently disbursed to pastors: Tennessee received $50,000; Texas, $48,000; North Carolina, $42,000; Virginia, $39,000; Georgia $34,000; Alabama $31,000; Missouri, $28,000; Kentucky, $24,000; Arkansas, $20,000; Mississippi, $20,000; Oklahoma, $11,000; South Carolina, $11,000; Florida, $10,000; Louisiana, $8,000; West Virginia, $6,000.

BRYAN WILLING TO ENTER RACE AGAIN

Not "Hankerin'" But Would Not Let Party Call In Vain.

Lincoln, Neb., March 13.—Should William J. Bryan's nomination for the presidency "be demanded" under certain conditions, he would feel it his duty to "consider it," he said in a statement issued here tonight.

He does not desire the nomination but feels that he owes it to progressive Democracy to go to the party's national convention "to help in opposing the reactionaries and friends of the saloon," according to the statement.

Mr. Bryan's statement took the form of a personal answer to request that he enter the presidential race. He said he "recognized it to be the duty of the citizen to respond to calls of his country in peace or war."

HOPES SITUATION WON'T ARISE.

"If the situation became such that my nomination was actually demanded, as in time of war a soldier's life is demanded on the battlefield—I would feel I should consider it," he said.

"I hope that no such situation will arise, and I do not now see any probability that such a situation will arise."

Mr. Bryan said the demands of public life for thirty years had deprived him of the companionship of his family and that he now desired to look forward to a few years of uninterrupted happiness at home, where he could devote his time to had not lost interest in public literary work. He added that he tions, but preferred to aid young men to "carry on the people's cause."

SEES MIGHTY TASK.

"We have great issues before us," he said, "and mighty work for those who are willing to put the welfare of the public above their own ease and comfort and risk all in the protection of the common people from the assaults of privilege."

"Besides not desiring the nomination, I think it is my duty to the progressive Democrats of the nation to go as a delegate to the national convention if Nebraska Democrats desire it, and aid them in opposing the reactionaries and friends of the sa-

HOW THE LEAD PENCIL IS MADE

Graphite First Used In Manufacture 350 Years Ago

Metalic lead was first used in pencils for making black marks on paper. For that reason they were called lead pencils and the name retained to this day is the same, although all "lead" pencils now are made from graphite or plumbago, a form of carbon found in the earth and having nothing to do with lead.

Graphite was first used for this purpose about three and a half centuries ago. The graphite obtained from British mines was so pure that it gave fairly satisfactory results in writing, without any special preparation; all that was necessary was to cut it out into sticks of the proper size and incase the sticks in wood to protect them. For a long time therefore the British nearly monopolized the pencil business of the world.

In 1761 the manufacture of pencils was started in Germany. The industry grew rapidly until within a short time the Nuremberg district became the world's greatest pencil-producing center. Generation after generation, the descendants of Caspar Faber, the pioneer in the German pencil industry, have continued in the pencil business.

Shortly before the American Civil war a great-grand-son, Eberhard Faber, emigrated to this country where he soon set up in the pencil-manufacturing business. Since that time a number of other pencil factories have been established and American-made pencils supply a large part of the world's demand.

Graphite as it comes from the mines usually contains impurities such as iron oxides, silicates, etc. These have to be removed before it can be worked up into pencils as they would make the finished product gritty and "scratches". Graphite occurs rather abundantly in the earth's crust but much of it contains too many impurities for use in pencils; that from mines in Mexico, Bohemia, Ceylon and Siberia is considered the best.

The mineral as it comes from the mines is sorted over and the coarser impurities are taken out by hand. It is then reduced to a powder by machines specially designed for that work and then poured into tubes containing water. The heavy impurities sink to the bottom while the lighter graphite remains at the top where it can be easily taken off. Centrifugal machines are sometimes used for separating the graphite from other substances in the ore but the results are not as good as those obtained with water. The final step in preparing the material is to pass it through filter presses.

It is then mixed by machinery with clay that has been refined by similar treatment. The clay is used for "tempering," the greater the proportion of clay the harder the finished "leads" and the small the proportion the softer.

The graphite-clay mixture, when well kneaded together, is molded into leaves and placed, while still plastic, in hydraulic presses. It is forced out the presses through dies of the size and shape necessary to produce the kind of lead desired. These dies are made of emerald, sapphire or other hard minerals because softer materials would wear away to rapidly.

As the plastic mixture comes forth in a continuous string it is cut to required lengths, ordinarily about seven inches. Compression in this process materially affects the quality of the lead, that subjected to the highest pressures writing best and giving the most satisfactory all-around service.

Finally the sticks of lead are baked in furnaces. They are then ready to be given their wooden cases which protect them against breakage and provide a convenient grip for the writer's fingers.

Red cedar has been found the best wood for pencils because it is close-grained, whittles easily and is capable of a high polish. After being cut into slabs about seven inches long, two and a half inches wide and a quarter inch thick the wood is placed in kilns to remove excess moisture and resin. The slabs when properly dried are fed into machines which automatically cut six semicircular grooves in one side of each.

A stick of lead is placed in each groove of a slab and another slab, with glue brushed over its grooved surface is laid on so that the six leads are covered above and below with wood. The next operation is performed by a machine that cuts the pencils out—six from each block—and works them into the shape desired, round, triangular, hexagonal, etc. A sanding machine then rubs their surfaces down smooth. Some of the cheaper kinds are given no further finish. The better ones, however, are coated with varnish, plain or colored.

In one of the varnishing processes most generally used the pencils pass one at a time through apertures in a machine which automatically gives a coat of varnish to each as it goes through. After the first coat has dried sufficiently the pencils are fed through the machines several more times, being allowed to dry between coats, until the desired finish has been obtained.

The more expensive ones get 10 or more such coats. In another machine-varnishing process the pencils, held in a frame, are immersed in a pan of varnish and then slowly drawn out and dried. For the finest finishes a final hand polishing is given the pencils.

A machine now sands off the ends to remove the varnish that has dried there and sharp knives trim them smoothly. Gold or silver letters may be stamped on by laying on each pencil a narrow strip of gold or silver leaf and then bringing it under a heated steel die which makes the leaf stick to the pencil under the letters on the die. By means of inked dies letters may be printed much the same as on paper, etc.

In the big factories the rubber tips used for erasing are made in great numbers, along with large separate erasers, rubber bands and the like. Eraser rubber, consisting of gum rubber, sulphur and abrasive material, properly cured and vulcanized, is either molded or cut into the form of plugs of the required shape and size

CRAPSHOOTER WINS FROM TEXAS JUDGE

Dallas, Tex., March 13.—George Washington Jackson Smith, a young negro, appeared in Justice Court here, charged with participating in a dice game. He told Sam J. Barnett, justice of the peace, that negroes liked to toy "with those bright-eyed ping-pong balls just as much as you like to eat," and he pulled from his pocket a pair of black dice with red "eyes" and proceeded to show the justice how to play the game.

"I will sentence you to pay a fine of $100," said Judge Barnett, "but I will give you a chance to get yourself out. Here are ten matches. I will keep eight and give you two, each representing $10. Now try your luck and see whether you go to jail or go free."

George Washington Jackson Smith "tried his luck." In the language of the game, he spoke feelingly to the fateful dice. Soon, the grinning negro had the judge's eight matches.

"If you all will give me a cigarette I will be on mah way," he said with emphasis. "I spect as how my wife is waiting for me, for I ain't been home since I left for church last Sunday mornin'."

UNEARTH PETRIFIED TUSK OF MASTODON IN KANSAS

Stockton, Kan., March 12.—The petrified core of a mastodon's tusk was unearthed near here the other day by workmen putting in abutments of a bridge. The tusk is five inches in diameter at the base and two feet in length.

It is believed the tusk is part of the skeleton of a large prehistoric animal that made its home in the primeval forests of the Solomon Valley, thousands of years ago.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless this inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh which is an inflammation of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine gives One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, Inc.

PALESTINE TO COPY AMERICAN CITIES

U. S. Towns To Be Duplicated On Desert Sands Of Holy Land

Boston, March 13.—Future cities and towns in Palestine will be replicas of localities in the United States, according to messages received from all parts of the country by the New England Zionist Bureau. American architectural beauties, street layouts and parks will be miniaturized in the Holy Land of the Jews.

The first city to be established in Palestine will be Lynn, named after the Massachusetts shoe city. More than $100,000 worth of land certificates have been purchased by the city's Jewry. The Lynn emigrants say they will make every possible attempt to reprint the city of Lynn on the sands of the Palestine desert.

The exodus of Boston Jews to Palestine, which is expected to reach its peak in the late summer, will mean that a new Boston will be founded to the Palestine coast. Maps of Boston will be reproduced in the Holy Land as far as advisable, Mendell Fisher, of the Zionist bureau, said.

Telegrams reveal that there will be a New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Philadelphia in the Holy Land.

"If we can duplicate American cities in Palestine," said Mr. Fisher, "it will mean that a good many more Jews will leave this country for their own land. When it is seen that the hardships are over, that we have trolley cars in the Palestine cities, modern buildings rivaling those in this country, communal societies which are anxious for the welfare of the people then we'll have a general emigration across the seas."

"Probably 30,000 Jews of the United States would leave this country as soon as Britain lifts the restrictions. The United States Jews, because of their advanced culture and financial backing, would be able to name the majority of the cities after American names. Already maintenance and development work has been started in Palestine in ten branches."

ARMISTICE DAY CASUALTIES

The adjutant-general's office has reported that the total casualties among the American forces on armistice day, Nov. 11, 1918, amounted to 3,912. Of this number 268 were killed in action, 2,769 wounded severely, 466 wounded slightly, 177 gassed slightly, 216 wounded, degree undetermined, and 16 gassed, degree undetermined. The largest number killed was in the 88th division. Some objectors have argued that it was an unnecessary sacrifice of life and limb to continue fighting on the last day, when it was pretty certain that hostilities would cease. But the Huns might have only been playing a trick, and it would have been the height of folly to relax the operations against them. The fighting, if anything, should have been continued until peace was made in Berlin. The Huns tricked the allies as it was.

BOY BREAKS BOTH LEGS WHILE TURNING IN BED

Sullivan, Ind., March 13.—Leo Pinkston, 15, broke both legs while attempting to turn over in bed. The lad, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pinkston, has been confined to his bed for more than three months with a malady affecting the bones of his legs. Physicians said the bones were brittle as chalk because of a lack of phosphorous. So, when Leo tired of one position and attempted to change, the legs snapped. The broken bones were set and the doctors are awaiting with interest to see if they will knit.

CHILDREN CRY FOR FLETCHER'S CASTOR OIL

MACHINE SLIPPED COG.

Julius Cutler was tickled nearly to death. A kind-hearted stranger who had happened along had given him a secret for making money at a more rapid rate than he had ever dreamed of before. He had just invented a marvelous new money-making ma-an' a friendly natural tobacco. Keep yo' put-on airs an' "sauced-up" tobaccos for the fellow that likes nut sundaes better than home made pie—

So says a friend of ours named Velvet Joe. And he just about hits the nail on the head.

Velvet is made for men who think there's no smoke like real tobacco. If you are that sort of man, listen:

Velvet was born in old Kentucky, where more than one good thing comes from. It was raised as carefully as any other Kentucky thoroughbred. But the real secret of Velvet's friendly qualities is its slow natural ageing in wooden hogsheads. Ageing in the wood never hurt anything—and least of all, tobacco.

And so we say, Velvet is good tobacco—nothing more or less. It runs second to none.

The picture of the pipe on the tin needn't keep you from rolling a jim-dandy cigarette with Velvet.

chine, the affable fellow had explained. This, by a simple operation, would transform $1 bills into $2.

Then he had demonstrated his invention, showing how $1 bills were fed in at one place and how they would come out at another, clean perfect $2 bills.

Cutler was more convinced. He was so enthusiastic that when the stranger offered to convert ones into twos for him on commission, he agreed to the proposition and rushed off to find his friend Benjamin Schonbrum. He breathlessly explained the scheme to the latter and it sounded so good to him that he decided to have his $900 capital doubled by having it run through the machine.

Cutler dug up his savings of $100 and together they repaired to the meeting place appointed by the inventor. The money was immediatly turned over to the latter and he fed it into the machine. Then he handed them a package of crisp $2 bills—that is, it seemed to be, with good, clean currency showing at top and bottom—and cautioned them that the package should be kept in a safe over night in order that the ink might dry properly.

Cutler and Schonbrum carried the new money off and carefully tucked it away in a safe, as per instructions. The following morning they opened the package with trembling fingers. Both almost fainted for they found only a few $2 bills in the lot and these, by some strange chance, were placed half of them at the top and half of them at the bottom of the pile. Sandwiched between the real money was a lot of old newspaper, clipped to the exact size of paper currency.

Cutler dug up his savings of $100 and together they repaired to the meeting place appointed by the inventor. The money was immediatly able to make up his mind whether something had gone wrong with the machine while it was working on their money or whether they had fooled some way in drying the ink.

They know now that they were neatly done out of $1000 but they don't figure it as a total loss, realizing that the experience is worth a great deal.—The Pathfinder.

FRIDAY MARCH 19

With things red hot in Constantinople, the "Bloody Turk" being tampered of some of his frisky, Christian murdering manners, or soon to be; the Germans doing all sorts of things to each other and laying for the Allies; the Bolsheviks and Reds in Russia and other places unusually active, the Kentucky Legislature picked out a good time in which to bring its session to a close. With so much else going on its activities will not be so badly missed.

The Kentucky Legislature died of old age sometime during the night of the 17th. In many respects the session just closed has been the most useful one for many years past. The Senate which contained a bare majority, has for the most part, been up and at work with the Lower Branch of the Assembly in good and earnest style. On but few occasions has partisan politics employed the time of either branch of our Law Making Body to any very great extent. Naturally some jockeying has been indulged in, but as a whole, this may be classed with the best Kentucky has had at Frankfort in a generation. At least that is our viewpoint.

We look for our good friend, John Henry Thomas, to take the Kentucky Legislature severely to task for the passage of the law legalizing hanging again. Punishment is meted out for two reasons, one and the first is because the man drawing the punishment is supposed to have, beyond a doubt, merited it. The other and chief reason for punishment for crime is for the deterring effects upon others. Crime is rampant, wildeyed, it seems, to lurk everywhere, you find it in every nook and corner, so it seems. No such crime wave ever swept this or any other civilized country as now engulfs our land. As we have heretofore said, make punishment for the professional and heinous criminal as odious and obnoxious as possible to invent. They ought to be sent over the last lap of the journey in a jolt-cart, unless something rougher can be found.

Our Neighbor, the Herald, says we called them to task for statements made with reference to the County Board of Supervisors' doings, when, in fact, we did not have the least idea of doing anything of that character, only endeavoring to state the matter correctly. The Herald said the Board would probably meet some time next month and send out notices of raises etc., when, as we stated, the notices are being sent out now, and when the board meets again it will be solely for the purpose of hearing complaints. At any rate, whether the operation of the law works hardships or don't, it is commonly known as a child of the Party whose cause the Herald always champions, and it, the Herald, ought not to be trying to cast odium upon the Board of Supervisors for doing the best they can with a law given us by the former Democratic Administration, and I will go further than the Herald went, I will state here and now that I am not so alifred certain that it is a bad law. I at least think it an immense improvement over the old makeshift.

The country is at present cursed with the most damnable crime wave it has experienced since the days of the Civil War, viz., that of robbery and loot. Every day we get accounts of robbery and holdups each more daring than the one previous. In each instance the money of our law-abiding and hard-working citizens is carried off by these dirty cut-throats to be blown on the worst of women and the lowest forms of vice their degenerated minds can conceive of. When the proceeds of the one haul are expended the crime is repeated, forthwith with amazing boldness and alacrity. These depredations on society are worse than premeditated murder in that they are prompted not by a grievance but by the sheer love of murder and pillage, and when there are killings the lives thus ruthlessly snuffed out are among those who are civilization's best examples. These thugs who would murder a man for 30 cents are second to none as criminals and rival even the degenerate rapist whose pleasure it is to despoil the virtues of pure, Christian womanhood. The rapist, thanks to the legislature, for future crimes will look up a rope. Let's have a law by which the unscrupulous bank robber will be punished likewise.

At it again—Our contemporary, the Herald, says editorially that the Republican majority in the senate played poor policy when they unmercifully called up and defeated the Night School Bill etc. We can't believe that the Herald will acknowledge that it did not know that the Senate is Democratic by a majority of at least one. And if it did know the difference, why make the statement? Neither did it say that it was for the bill or against it; so after all from the Herald's opinion we do not know whether it was a good or bad measure. The Herald says further, that thousands of teachers have struggled night after night with the grown-ups without receiving a penny for their trouble. We likewise grant that as being true and at the same time say to the esteemed Herald that hundreds of dollars have been spent supposedly for the cause, here in Ohio County, and we do not know of any Ohio County Citizen having received any benefits, either pecuniary or otherwise. We were against the proposed measure because we deemed it unwise to create a separate department for the handling of this particular branch of our School system, when it could have been entrusted to our regular Department of Education with but little added cost. We venture the assertion that fully one half of the $75,000 asked for in the bill, (am not certain as to the amount) would have been consumed by heads of departments in salaries, traveling and other necessary expense. We make the statement with no thought of accusing any one with wrong doing. The bill may have been killed in the right manner on the wrong date or perhaps it was killed in the wrong manner on the right date. We frankly told the Party who read the bill to us, long before it was killed in the House, that we could not exactly see the bill as good, hence we can't be accused of taking our stand for partisan reason.

LOWDEN IN VIRGINIA

Illinois Man Gets Instructions Of Stormy Convention

Roanoke, Va., March 17.—In one of the stormiest scenes that ever attended a political gathering in the state, Virginia Republicans in convention here tonight selected four delegates-at-large and four alternates to the national convention in Chicago and instructed them to support Gov. Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, for the presidential nomination. The opposition fought for uninstructed delegates.

Prior to the voting tonight the convention laid plans for the presidential campaign and listened to Will F. Hays, national chairman, as the principal speaker.

For the first time in the history of the state, the convention was addressed by women, among those speaking being Mrs. M. M. Caldwell, of Roanoke, state chairman of the Republican women's executive committee; Mrs. John T. Pratt, New York, chairman of the women's ways and means committee of the Republican National Committee; Mrs. John G. South, of Frankfort, Ky., delegate to the national convention, and Mrs. Dexter Otey, representing the National Woman's party.

Election of four delegates-at-large kept the convention busy until nearly midnight.

The platform adopted advocated ratification of the peace treaty with reservations that the United States be not obligated to send soldiers to Europe without consent of Congress, reduction of taxes, creation of a national budget system, maintenance of a small standing army with a citizens' reserve and equal suffrage and opposed to further loans to Europe.

GOVERNOR MORROW THANKS ASSEMBLY

Frankfort, Ky., March 17.—With the adjournment of the Legislature late tonight Governor Morrow issued the following statement:

"The laws passed by the General Assembly have carried into effect every platform pledge of the Republican party. A check of promises against performances will demonstrate the truthfulness of this statement. I thank the General Assembly in the name of Kentucky for the constructive legislation it has passed, which will result in better roads, better schools, more humane and better charitable institutions, a forward step toward non-partisan judiciary and a financial policy which makes possible a most substantial reduction of the state debt."

MOTHER SUFFOCATES

SECOND BABY IN SLEEP

Bloomingdale, N. J., March 13—Mrs. Frank Stagg, of this place, awoke to find her 10-day-old baby dead in her arms. Her physician, Dr. Thomas B. Miller, said Mrs. Stagg probably held her infant too close to her breast while she slept and it had died of suffocation several hours before she awoke.

Dr. Miller added that two years ago another infant of Mr. Stagg's of the same age was accidentally suffocated while it slept with its mother. Mrs. Stagg was so distracted she has been continually under the care of a physician.

Broom Corn, Indian Corn, And Other Plants Barred

Broom corn for manufacturing purposes may be imported hereafter only under permit and when its condition is such that it can be satisfactorily disinfected at port of entry, under a quarantine placed by the Secretary of Agriculture, effective February 21, 1920. Indian corn and certain related plants from all foreign countries are denied entry into the United States in the raw or unmanufactured state, except sorghum hay from Canada and the shelled or thrashed grain, from any country, of the plants included in the quarantine. The quarantine applies, in addition to broom corn and Indian corn, to such related plants as sweet sorghums, grain sorghums, sugar cane, Sudan grass, Johnson grass, pearl millet, Napier grass, and Job's-tears.

The necessity for such quarantine was demonstrated a week or so ago by the discovery of living larvae of the corn borer in some 97 bales of broom corn shipped from Italy to New York, the first considerable shipment of foreign broom corn since the war period. It has been definitely determined that the European corn borer, now known to exist in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York and Pennsylvania, originally reached this country through the medium of imported broom corn.

Wool Sold In Large Lot Gets Farmers Better Price

Twenty-three thousand pounds of wool were pooled and marketed at prices ranging from 49 cents to 54 cents a pound by farmers of Dav County, S. Dakota. These prices represent advances of from 9 to 12 cents over the local quotations.

The Day County Farm Bureau, through the county agent and a representative of the State bureau of markets, assisted a committee of farmers in organizing the pool and selling the wool to the highest bidder.

This co-operative effort promises to have a permanent effect through the stimulation of meetings and demonstrations in the care, feeding and handling of the products of sheep.

Fertilizer Bins At Railroad

The Crawford County (Illinois) farm bureau, through the efforts of the county agent, has secured space at railroad points on which to build bins for storage of limestone and rock phosphate. At Palestine an association was formed to construct a bin 60 feet long and 12 feet wide and to conduct the work of purchasing and distributing limestone. A total of 900 tons of this material has already been obtained. Other communities are rapidly following this plan, so that in time every farmer in Crawford County will have ready access to supply of limestone and rock phosphate at reasonable prices.

Wage Question May Cut Food Production.

Serious risk of reduced food production this year because of high wages demanded by farm laborers, high cost of farm equipment and supplies and because of pronounced movements of people from the farms to the cities is indicated by reports and letters that are reaching the United States Department of Agriculture from many sections of the country.

The most definite report of this year's movement comes from New York State, where records of the population on 3,775 representative farms on February 1 this year and February 1, a year ago were made by Federal and State workers. It was disclosed that during the past year the number of people on these farms decreased nearly 3 per cent and the number of hired men decreased more than 17 per cent. If the same ratio holds for all farms in the State about 35,000 men and boys left the farms to go into other industries, while only about 11,000 have changed from other industries to farming. This is a more rapid movement from the farms to other industries than took place in the early part of the war.

The same conditions in varying degrees exist in all sections, according to the Federal Bureau of Crop Estimates, although they are not so acute farther from industrial centers.

Another New York report, applicable in some degree in every part of the country, is that farm wages this year will average 14 per cent higher than they were in 1919, although in 1919 they were 80 per cent higher than they were at the beginning of the war. Estimates from 350 farmers in all parts of New York State indicate that experienced farm help, hired by the month, will be paid this year about $52 a month and board, as compared with $45.50 last year. Experienced married men, not boarded but provided with a house and farm products, are expected to receive on the average about $68.50 a month in cash as compared with $60 last year.

Numerous letters to the Department of Agriculture from its field workers or from farmers indicate a widespread disposition to cut down plantings so that the work of cultivating can be attended to by the farmer himself or by members of his family. The assertion that farmers can not pay the high wages demanded in competition with other industries and make a profit on their products is frequently made. Many farmers, also, declare it is unfair to them to be under the necessity of working 10,

Why Colds Are Dangerous.

You are often told to "beware of a cold," but why? We will tell you: Every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality and paves the way for the more serious diseases. People who contract pneumonia first take cold. The longer a cold hangs on the greater the danger, especially from the germ diseases, as a cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs of consumption, diphtheria, scarlet fever and whooping cough. The quicker you get rid of your cold, the less the danger of contracting one of these diseases. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a great reputation as a cure for colds and can be depended upon. It is pleasant to take.

DECK-HAND SUES RAILROAD.

A suit for overtime pay was brought against W. D. Hines, director-general of the U. S. railroad administration, in Jersey City, by a deck-hand on Pennsylvania railroad tug. The plaintiff said he had worked 12 hours a day "under the exigencies of the war" and claimed overtime amounting to $394. Counsel for Director Hines argued that a bonus had been accepted by employees instead of overtime. Decision was reserved. It is estimated that probably 2,000,000 employees of the railroad administration have the same title to overtime pay as this plaintiff.

I was constipated, my liver didn't act. My digestion was bad, and it took so little to upset me. My appetite was gone. I was very weak... My appetite improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the least trouble was soon righted with a few

LOWDEN AS TEACHER PUNISHES SCHOOL BULLY

When Gov. Frank O. Lowden was a country school teacher in Hardin county, Iowa, he often had in his classes farm hands who were much older and bigger and stronger than he. The governor had his first school when he was only 15 years old.

"There was a boy in my school named Bob McBride, who had been a classmate of mine in my own school and whose parents had moved into this district where I was to teach. He was not going to be bossed by me if he could help it. So he started a series of petty persecutions. He was a big, powerful fellow and he could lick me. I knew that, but I also knew that the time would come when there would have to be a showdown before the whole school.

"Bob kept up his petty annoyances until he was thoroughly in the wrong. I waited patiently. One day I went out and cut a fine hickory sapling and put it in my desk. The time came when he flatly disobeyed me. I knew I had every pupil in that school on my side and that it was time for me to act. I took up that hickory stick and walked down to where he sat. I put my hand on his shoulder and began to lay about me. I took Bob absolutely off his guard. He knew in his heart he was in the wrong and I was armed with the right. He didn't dare resist me. I won, of course.

"That taught me that if you are armed with the right you are doubly armed. Have patience, wait until the other fellow puts himself so thoroughly in the wrong that everybody knows he is in the wrong, and you will win the fight. I applied the principle afterward. Bob McBride became a good friend of mine. He actually invited me to come to his house and stay over-night—which is about the biggest compliment you can pay to a country teacher."

The next time you have a cough or cold try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is pleasant to take and you are sure to be pleased with the relief which it affords. This remedy has a wide reputation for its cures of coughs and colds.

OFFICER SHOT TO DEATH WHILE IN COURT HOUSE

Albany, Ky., March 6.—His body riddled by bullets, Deputy Sheriff M. F. Cumming, 30 years old, was slain in the Court House corridor this afternoon by a fusilade of twenty-five shots fired by Steve Gibson, his four sons and W. Lee.

Before he fell the Deputy Sheriff shot the elder Gibson through the head and his son, Marion, in the back.

Cumming arrested Gibson and his sons two weeks ago on moonshining warrants. Threats of vengeance were made at the time, it is reported.

Today, joined by Lee, a neighbor, they walked into the Court House, called Cumming from his office and, after heated exchange of words, the volley was fired.

There were no eye-witnesses, Court House attaches found Cumming dead, with eight bullets in his body.

No other officials were in town and the intruders escaped. Tonight a posse is searching for them. The Gibsons live several miles from here.

REMOVE CHILDREN URGED IN REPORT

11 In Feeble Minded Institute To Be Given Showing

By Robert D. Anderson.

Frankfort, Ky., March 13.—The report of the Huntsman probe committee, submitted today, urges the State Board of Charities and Corrections to "give immediate attention" to the cases of the eleven children whose removal from the Feeble-Minded Institute was recommended by Dr. H. H. Goddard, expert from Columbus, O. The report exonerates the Kentucky Children's Home Society and Judge Harry W. Robinson, of Louisville, from any blame in connection with the commitment of children to the institute. It also exonerates the management of the institute in connection with the objectionable conditions found there.

The report says, in part:

"The institution does not reflect credit on the great commonwealth of Kentucky. It does not in any sense apelitizens might properly boast at home or abroad. We repeat and insist, however, that this situation is due mainly to the lack of funds for the proper administration of the care and attention rightfully due to a most unfortunate class of our own people."

Change Anticipated.

"The institution has passed now into the hands of a management which we understand will undertake a departure from old methods and ways. This committee wishes the new management "godspeed" in their efforts and expresses the hope that only good will result, but with that hope the committee expresses the doubt that ultimate success will result unless the authority be armed with proper means to carry out the great work with which they are concerned."

"It appears from Dr. Goddard's report that there are eleven children in the class of twenty-five which he examined, three of which class were transferred from the Kentucky Children's Home and eight of whom came there directly from various counties. These eleven are denominated, as being "just across the border line." Looking to their welfare, it is suggested to the Board of Control that every effort should be made by the board that some arrangement be immediately made looking toward the betterment of their conditions and prospects.

Will Furnish Names.

"The committee, or chairman thereof, will furnish at a convenient time a list of these eleven unfortunate children together with information as to places from whence they came originally. The committee feels that since it appears that there is yet hope for them the Board of Control should give their cases immediate attention.

"The committee expresses the opinion and the sincerest hope, that there may be ultimately, and perhaps immediately, much good as a result of its investigations. It has brought to the forefront a condition that was not generally known to exist, and has developed a need for some sort of institution, or place in existing institutions for the care and treatment of a most pitiable class of unfortunates. Since this is true, the investigation instigated by our chairman, R. O. Huntsman, should be commended."

Take Herbine for indigestion. It relieves the pain in a few minutes and the fermented matter which causes the misery into the bowels where it is expelled. Price 60c. Sold by Ohio County Drug Co.

SLAYER AVERS HE KILLED IN SLEEP

Michigan Man Remembers Nothing Regarding Wife's Death

Pontiac, Mich., March 13—"My wife kissed me and went to sleep on my arm. The next thing I remember I was walking on the railroad tracks and knew that I had killed her."

This is the amazing statement made to the police by C. L. Garmon, 23, who is in jail here charged with the murder of his wife, who was found slain in bed in her home in Pontiac. The circumstances surrounding the crime are the most curious that have confronted the authorities here in years.

Garmon, who told the officers that he worshipped his wife, asserted that he suffered a loss of memory during which time he could remember nothing that took place.

He regained his memory, he said, and found himself fully dressed walking from his home down the railroad tracks toward the city. He gave himself up to the first policeman he met, and at his request both returned to the home, where they found the body of the murdered woman, her head crushed and a blood-stained axe standing beside the bed. Indications were that the woman had given no struggle.

"I loved my wife," Garmon told the officers. "She was a good woman, very considerate and dutiful. We had no trouble. She was previously married and had a hard time and I tried to make up to her for her unhappiness. We did not quarrel."

Great beads of perspiration poured down Garmon's face as he told his story. He appeared to be under a great strain. As a result of a train wreck two years ago one arm, part of a foot were lost and he has since been forced to wear a silver plate in his skull to cover a fracture. He told the officers that of late his head bothered him a great deal and he did not sleep well at night.

Danced in Evening.

The couple spent the afternoon before the murder shopping and in the evening attended a dance.

"We had a good time," Garmon said, "and after we returned home we spent some time making plans for the summer. My wife kissed me and went to sleep on my arm. The next thing I remember I was walking on the railroad tracks and knew that I had killed her."

Coroner Farmer took charge of the body and decided to hold no inquest. C. H. Wooten, an uncle of Mrs. Garmon, lived in the same house with them. She had no parents, but a son by her former marriage survives.

According to Garmon the couple were married four months ago. He came here to work for the Dupont Engineering Company. He is being held pending a decision as to whether to call a sanity commission.

PREDICTS FLASHING OF PICTURES TO MARS

Cincinnati, March 13.—That pictures as well as words may be flashed to other planets is the hope expressed by Miss Annette Covington, Cincinnati artist, direct descendant of Robert Fulton, builder of the first steamboat.

Puzzled over the theory that actual signals are possible, Miss Covington believes that communication with other worlds will come if a long and short flash has been observed.

"In time, we might even show the Martians a picture of an earth city," said Miss Covington.

"Of course I am still skeptical about being able to get the first communication, but once that is accomplished, the rest should be less difficult."

Miss Covington is a granddaughter of the late Samuel Fulton Chase, who was first president of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

KILLING OF ELEPHANT HERD. NOVEL EXPERIMENT

London, March 13.—Major Pretorius, the officer who was appointed by the government to exterminate the herd of elephants inhabiting the Addo Forest, near Port Elizabeth, South Africa, is having a novel experience, says a Central News Johanesburg message.

He reports that after killing a large number of the animals he is being killed by the remainder.

The elephants have evidently realized that he is their natural enemy, and instead of him doing the talking, the boot is on the other leg.

Major Pretorius adds that the animals display extraordinary cunning, lying in wait for his approach as if they had made a preconcerted plan, and he has already had some miraculous escapes.

WOMAN EVANGELIST'S MORAL—WISDOM SHOTS

Spokane, Wash., March 13.—Here are a few pearls of wisdom and a couple slugs of vinegar tonic for the corals handed out by a woman evangelist here. She says:

"Girls, don't look like beefsteaks. There's more paint in Spokane than in hell."

"Don't use so much perfume a man is gassed into submission."

If you can't see the harm in dancing you are blind.

Some parents think it is best to teach their children to dance and play cards at home so they won't have to learn these vices elsewhere. Might teach 'em to smoke, swear and steal for the same reason."

BEARS DESCEND ON NEW JERSEY VILLAGES

Pearl River, N. Y., March 12—Leo Hesse, the village butcher, saw bear tracks in the snow on the outskirts of Montvale, N. J., just across the state line. Hesse followed the tracks to the home of Edward Serrel and there telephoned to everybody about the country to be on the lookout for bears.

Mr. Hesse himself saw the bears, two of them, after he left the Serrel home, but they were half a mile away and he did not consider it necessary to try to catch up with them. Half a dozen men armed with rifles traced the bears to the home of Mrs. Laura Hollis in Pearl River. Mrs. Hollis said she had seen them, but thought they were stray dogs and drove them away. It was reported the animals had killed several calves near Allendale, N. J.

MASONIC SOLILOQUY.

John William Tinsley.
With my life in utter darkness
As I knelt upon my knee,
And prayed to heaven for guidance
On my mystic march to be;
And finding favor in the craft
That placed their trust in me,
I embarked upon the mystic flight of
The Square, Compass and G.

To a stranger to the mystic art
In God I placed my trust,
To free my life from earthly cares
And purify my lusts:

To pilot me on the voyage
O're waves of unknown sea,
As I drifted on the journey of
The Square, Compass and G.

With the Master as my pilot,
And the helm within his hand,
I had no fear of danger
While in that unknown land;

But traveled on with feeble steps
And wistful eyes to see,

Into the mystic symbols of
The Square, Compass and G.

With steps of feeble character
I traveled on and on,

Hoping to find an entrance
To reach my Master's throne,

And there to gain the mystery
Of my future life to be,

And learn to use the working tools
The Square, Compass and G.

Now I have the secret of
The great mysterious art,

A Mason, yes, a Master!

Deep down within the heart;

The darkness turned to knowledge

That filled my soul with glee,

To comprehend the mystery of

The Square, Compass and G.

On the Plumb of life I'm working

With the Gavel in my hand,

To Square life's rude disfigures

On my journey thru this land;

With the Level even balanced

O're life's unresting sea:

I have no fear of wreckage on

The Square, Compass and G.

When the death-knoll dooms the verdict

Of my soul's eternal flight,

And my vision blinds are lowering

Into scenes of endless light;

When the shadows of death are gathering

Sing "Nearer My God To Thee,"

And carve upon my headstone

The Square, Compass and G.

WAX-MAKING HARD WORK FOR THE BEES

Naturalists tell us that when a swarm of bees needs wax to build new combs a delegation of workers gorge themselves and cling together in a dense mass suspended from some point overhead. Within 24 hours wax begins to ooze from the wax-plates on their abdomens, being secreted by glands near the plates.

These plates, on the under surface of the abdomen, can be viewed readily with the aid of a microscope, even one of low power.

Making wax is harder work for the bees than making honey; to produce a single pound of wax 21 pounds of honey is consumed. In order to ob-

ALLES KEEPING EYE ON GERMANY

Maria, March 16.—Despite the fresh reports today that the German militarist de facto regime, under Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, has thrown up the sponge, the allies intend to maintain the closest "watch on the Rhine" and keep their troops at strategic bridgeheads at their reinforced strength until there is absolute certainty that neither a reactionary nor a red revolution is sweeping the former empire.

Politically, the most important unofficial report from Berlin today was that France had sent a diplomatic mission to Stuttgart, where Friedrich Ebert and his cabinet are holding forth. Another dispatch had it that Ebert was in direct touch with the allies today and had a telephone conversation with Premier Millerand.

These reports, which lack official confirmation, were greeted with gratification by that section of the French press and public that has been urging France to take the initiative in encouraging the anti-Prussian sep-ecession movement in South Germany, thus taking advantage of an opportunity to obviate the German menace forever by splitting the nation asunder.

A report that Marshal Foch gave Dr. Kapp forty-eight hours in which to resign, threatening to march into Germany if the demand was disobeyed, was denied officially. It caused a great sensation here, but in quarters where sane and logical heads predominate it was ridiculed from the outset.

Again it was reported that Britain, through her charge d'affaires in Berlin, had given Kapp forty-eight hours in which to establish a stable government. There have been reports ever since the Saturday coup hinting at British collusion with, or tacit consent and moral support of, the militarist revolt. They have served to intensify anti-British feeling here, but there are those who believe that is part and parcel of the German junkers' scheme to sow dissension among the allies as a "sideline" of their revolution.

Softly but swiftly the Angel of the Lord stole into our midst within the past month taking away two of our most lovable mothers and Christian workers, Mrs. Martha Leach and Mrs. Mary Davis. They were indeed kindness personified. Our community can truly say that it has been greatly benefited by their having lived among us. Mrs. Davis is survived by 7 children and Mrs. Leach by her husband and 4 children.

RED CROSS AID DIS- ADVANTAGED FAMILIES

An investigation of social agencies in Ohio County shows that there is no organization specially interested in the unstable family. The County Court assists with money relief where the question of poverty exists. However, money relief is often times the least consideration in families who need the helping hand of a social worker. Oftentimes an overworked mother of a large family needs sympathy, encouragement and advice, by an understanding person. She may be needing a hospital operation and has no one to help her make some suitable arrangement for the children while she is away from home. The husband may not be earning enough to support the family when with a little encouragement and assistance he might find a better position.

Then there is the case of the family deserted by the breadwinner. There is no money and the mother is not able to work. What shall be done with such a family. The easiest way is to place children in a children's home and have the mother do what little work she is able to do or go to the county house. The most human and cheapest way, as proven by counties and states who have tried it, is to keep the family together in the care of the mother and under normal conditions. One of the foremost child welfare workers in Ohio has stated recently that when more money is expended for mothers' pensions than children's homes we may feel that a distinct advance in civilization has been made.

It is hoped that when the war job of Ohio County is finished the Red Cross Secretary may enlarge her work to include assistance and advice to such families as may need it.
